Subject: Chat with Karen Lancaster
From: Karen Lancaster <lancaster.karen@gmail.com>
To: barriticus@gmail.com

Karen: Whatcha doing now?
me: well, you're up late me: I me: I'm updating our wiki, adding to some entries that we never got around to fleshing out Karen: Yes, I went to hear this former CIA guy speak, he just wrote a book and was on 60minutes a few weeks ago :)
Karen: Henry Crumpton: The Art of Intelligence: Lessons From a Life in the CIA's Clandestine Service
Karen: I asked him if they were making a movie of his book and if so, who would play him. He replied, "It's not that kind of a book." I said I thought Tom Cruise should play him.
Karen: He didn't have a sense of humor.
me: Probably he was stunned by what a good idea it was Karen: No, he just thought I was too stupid to understand what he was writing about. (Don't worry, it was in private, not a public question in front of th ewhole audience!0
Karen: I'll tell you tomorrow about what Ross Perot DID ask in front of the whole audience. What an old coot.
me: lol, he's still alive
Karen: Yup, nighty night, see you tomorrow.